THE REBEL PRISONER.

Riel Indicted and the Trial Fixed for the 20th instant.

The Prisoner's Appearance—How he is Treated and Spends his Time.

Yesterday, writes a correspondent of THE TIMES in Regina, on the 6th inst., I was permitted to pay a visit to the barracks and had a glimpse of Louis Riel, who for some time past has occupied so much attention throughout the world, and for days to come he will be a central figure for newspaper correspondents, lawyers and judges throughout the land. In appearance he does not bear much resemblance to the portraits published alleged to be his likeness. A long unkempt beard, of a light brown color, nearly overspreads his face, almost corresponding with his sun-browned features. His hair is quite black, and falls neatly to his shoulders in small ringlets and curls. His headgear consisted of a light-colored slouch hat, which was turned up at the sides and allowed to fall over a high and intellectual forehead. The features of Riel are prominent, his closely compressed mouth and aquiline nose being indicative of the firmness and other superior qualities which he is known to possess. A keen, piercing blue eye, one glance from which the observer readily understands would enable the owner to read a man's innermost thoughts. In person Riel is of medium build, and is still attired in tattered and faded suit worn throughout the memorable engagements at Batoche. The feet of Riel were encased in a large sized pair of beef moccasins, which also exhibited signs of wear. His bare heels peeped forth through two large apertures. When a spectator approaches the prisoner momentarily raises his head to scan the features of the new comer, only to relapse into his unattractive posture. Every movement of the man in the presence of any of the officers gives evidence of his dignity and suavity of manner. He is thoroughly well guarded. At 6 p. m., in addition to the sentries within and without the guard house, six patrols and twenty-four guards go on duty, while a quarter of a mile away over three hundred members of the Montreal Garrison Artillery are ready to respond to the first alarm.

The instructions of the guards are definite, not a man being permitted to hold converse with the prisoners unless spoken to. The policemen selected for this duty have been forbidden to mention the recent troubles to Riel and have received imperative orders that no person but the commanding officer or surgeon must be admitted to the guard house. The cell the prisoner occupies is 6 feet 4 by four feet in extent, the sole articles of furniture it contains being a small iron bed and a low chair. Pen and ink and other writing material are deposited in a corner, while on the floor lies the heavy shackles which encumber the prisoner's feet every time he takes exercise. He scarcely completes his toilet when he sinks down upon his knees beside his bed, and remains transfixed like a statue in prayer for hours at a time. Although perhaps disposed to think unkindly of him at first, his gaolers have since become impressed with his gentleness of manner and the apparent sincerity of his devotions, and now regard him as a man whose misguided zeal has brought him into the clutches of the law. Those who have had occasion to be in the presence of the captive frequently positively assert that he does not exhibit a symptom of insanity, but, on the contrary, that his every action shows him to be a keen, deep and resolute man, not easily oppressed with difficulties.

He receives the usual rations accorded a mounted police, daily, as follows: 1½ lb. bread, 1½ lb. fresh meat, 1 lb. potatoes, and tea.

RIEL'S INDITMENT.

Riel was brought at Regina yesterday before Col. Richardson and presented with the indictment against him, which is sworn out by Charles Stewart, of Hamilton. The trial is fixed for the 20th instant. The indictment charges that Louis Riel, being a subject of his lady the Queen, not regarding the duty of his allegiance, nor having the fear of God in his heart, but being moved and seduced by the instigation of the devil as a false traitor against the said lady the Queen, and wholly withdrawing the allegiance, fidelity, and obedience which every true and faithful subject of our said lady the Queen should and of right ought to bear towards our said lady the Queen, did, on the 27th day of March, in the year aforesaid, together with divers others, false traitors, to the said Stewart unknown, armed and arrayed in warlike manner, that is to say with guns, rifles, pistols, bayonets and other weapons, being then unlawfully, maliciously and traitorously assembled and gathered together against our said lady the Queen, most wickedly, maliciously, traitorously levy and make war against the said lady the Queen at a locality known as Duck Lake, in the said Northwest territories of Canada, and within this realm, and did then maliciously and traitorously attempt and endeavor, by force of arms, to subvert and destroy the constitution and government of this realm, as by law established, and deprive and depose our said lady the Queen from the style, honor and kingly name of the imperial crown of this realm, in contempt of our said lady the Queen and her laws, to evil, exempt of all others in like case offending contrary to the duty of the allegiance of him, the said Louis Riel, against the form of the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace of our said lady the Queen, her crown and dignity. A similar charge is made as regards the affairs at Fish creek and Batoche. Care is taken to preserve the legality of the indictment in case Riel sets up the plea of being a citizen of the United States.

Canada in Europe.

According to the Toronto Globe's special correspondent at the Vienna world's fair, Canada's display is an exceedingly creditable one. Great praise is bestowed on the liberality of the C. P. R. in adequately illustrating the resources of the prairie province and the Northwest generally. British Columbia, the correspondent says, certainly does better than either New Brunswick or Prince Edward Island. Its fisheries are illustrated by a fair variety of canned goods and its minerals by samples of coal. Whatever Canada may have been, however, in the past, the show at the Antwerp International exhibition has abundantly demonstrated that to-day the Dominion is a country worthy the attention of all, wanting only a hardy race of colonists to make her take rank among the rich and powerful nations of the earth.

CITY COUNCIL.

The Usual Budget of Civic Business Disposed of.

The regular meeting of the City Council was held last evening at 8:15. Present: Mayor Beihet and Councillors McKillican, Smith, Teague, Braden, Grant, Ward, Earle and Warner.

Minutes read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From John Redmond, for street lines on Johnson street. Granted.

From Richard Jones, inspector of weights and measures, asking that the weigh scales be put in proper order, and that a day be named for inspection. Moved and seconded that Mr. Vipond prepare the scales for that purpose. Carried.

From H. B. Boyeraft, gaol warden, enclosing statement of account due the provincial government for food supplied prisoners, amounting to $229.78. Laid on the table for further consideration.

From Chas. Hayward and others of James Bay ward, representing that the water supply in that ward has always been inadequate, and asking that pipes be laid on streets where required. Referred to Water committee to report.

From Jesse Cowper, asking for the street lines on Menzies and Simcoe streets. Granted.

From E. Johnson, City Barrister, reporting with respect to the revision and consolidation of the city by-laws; that the work would cost $300. Moved by Mr. Grant and seconded by Mr. McKillican, that Mr. Johnson be requested to undertake the work at the price named.

From C. West and others, asking for a new sidewalk on north side of Kane street. Received and filed.

From A. Banster protesting against permission being given to Mr. Gillespie for the construction of a sewer to Johnson street ravine. Referred to the city barrister and street committee.

From Willie Bond, calling attention to the fact that there are men in the city from the other side, who have gone into the business of contracting without paying a license. Referred to the tax collector to report.

TENDERS.

Tenders for stumping and grading Boyd street, were read: Wyld and McLeod $150; Noah Leclaire, $115; F. L. Lakin, $197.50; James Baker, $163; John Temple, $275; W. Bond, $242.50. Moved and seconded that the contract be awarded to N. Leclaire, the lowest tenderer. Carried.

Tenders for grading Cook street between Belcher street and Fairfield road, were opened as follows: Wyld & McLeod $165; Noah Leclaire, $250; James Baker, $196; John Temple, $400; John Campbell and Geo. Blackwell, $300. Moved and seconded that the contract be awarded to Wyld & McLeod. Carried.

REPORTS.

From the Fire Wardens, reporting that they had examined the furnace in rear of Mr. Duck's property and that it was a nuisance, and its use should be stopped. received and adopted.

From the City Surveyor, reporting that Geo. Baker had by mistake taken up the sidewalk on the north side of Kane street instead of the south side. Referred to the Street Committee with power to act.

From the street committee, reporting that there was no absolute necessity for the construction of two piers under James Bay bridge, as it had been examined by an architect, and recommending some minor improvements; and also recommending that the View street drain be taken up and a new one laid, which will cost $1000.

Councillor Ward thought that the drain should be deferred for a time, until we see how we are sailing along financially.

Councillor Earle said this work should be done, even if some other was deferred.

Moved and seconded that the report be adopted, the recommendation carried out, and plans and specifications for the View street drain be prepared.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Mayor reported, in reference to the water difficulty at the brickyard that it had been found that the motion made at last meeting by Councillor Teague was deemed sufficient.

Councillor Braden asked if the drainage committee was doing anything.

The Mayor said that lithographic maps were now being prepared, and would be ready in a few days.

Moved and seconded that the Sanitary Officer be instructed to take proceedings against Capt. McCullough for permitting a nuisance to exist on his property. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Ward and seconded by Councillor Grant, that the Water Committee take into consideration the question of the insufficiency of the water supply, and to ascertain whether a system of turning the water on and off at certain hours would not give a greater pressure to consumers in the localities where the water has not been turned off. Carried.

Councillor McKillican thought an officer should be appointed to prevent the indiscriminate waste of water practised all over the city.

Councillor Braden said there was a man for that purpose and his services were having the desired effect.

Councillor Grant called the attention of the police to the number of Indians encamped near Lang's ship yard.

Council adjourned.

Farming in the Northwest.

Some idea may be formed of the extensive farming carried on in the Northwest from the following extract from a letter received from Regina, near to which place Sir John Lester Kaye has a large tract of land which he is now engaged in ploughing with twenty-five teams, turning over forty acres a day. He intends to continue ploughing as long as the weather permits and the whole will be back set this autumn. They have already about 700 acres broken. Two thousand acres will be broken and back set this year. He breaks with hired teams at $3.75 an acre, and he can get all he wants broken at this figure.

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer never fails in restoring gray hair to its youthful color, lustre, and vitality. Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, endorses it, and all who give it a fair trial unite in grateful testimony to its many virtues.

Will Return.

Prof. A. L. Francis will visit Victoria on or about June the 10th, prepared to fill all orders for tuning and repairing, and will continue to make periodical visits.

THIS DAY'S DESPATCHES

An Execution in Cincinnati.

Special to THE TIMES.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 15.—The execution of Joseph Palmer, colored, this morning is the last that can take place in this county, under the present law which designates Ohio penitentiary as the place for all future executions. Palmer's crime was the murder of Wm. H. Kirk in his stable, on the afternoon of December 24, 1883. The object of the crime was robbery. Mr. Berner and Palmer, both of whom had been employed by Kirk, planned and executed the murder. They were almost immediately arrested and both confessed, each charging the other with having struck the fatal blow. It was a verdict in Berner's case of manslaughter. That was the chief inciting cause of the riot in which the Court House was burned in March, 1884. Berner is now in the Ohio penitentiary, serving out his sentence of 20 years. Palmer had been unusually stoical, though he was recently permitted the ministrations of Catholic priests. The execution was private in the jail yard. The scaffold was shielded from view by a stone wall and a large awning. Large number of people were in the adjacent streets, which were guarded by the police. Promptly at 10 o'clock, Palmer was led on the scaffold. After a short prayer was said by the priest, Palmer said nothing. The deputy sheriffs were so excited that they could hardly adjust the rope. At two minutes after 10 the drop fell, but Palmer was such a powerful young fellow that his neck was not broken. He writhed fearfully and at the end of 26 minutes the sheriff announced that the execution was over, but the body was not cut down until sometime later.

Mrs. Booth to Read Letters from the Queen, Earl Salisbury, and Mr. Gladstone.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 16.—Mrs. Booth positively declines to make public the contents of the letters which she announced at Princes Hall conference she had received from Earl Salisbury and Mr. Gladstone in approval of her work in rescuing girls from the pits of iniquity as exposed by the Pall Mall Gazette. She says that she will read letters at the Women' meeting in Exeter Hall this afternoon. Mrs. Booth says she also has letters from the Queen, written over three weeks ago, and in which sympathy is expressed with the work of the Salvation army in protecting young girls. This letter will likewise be read at the meeting to-day.

Salisbury will not Consent.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 16.—This morning's Telegraph, in its article on Afghan news, says: The objection of the Ameer of Afghanistan to Russia's claim to a position practically commanding Zulfikar Pass, is supported by Salisbury. Lord Salisbury's reluctance to consent to Russia's offer to submit the question in dispute to a joint commission, is owing to his belief that such a course will be resultless and would only delay the settlement of matters. The Times editorial says that all the powers, with the exception of Russia, have given their assent to the issue of Egyptian loans. Russia's silence, the Times says, increases the apprehension in regard to the Afghan situation.

A Villain Hanged.

Special to THE TIMES.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 16.—Joseph Taylor, who on May 31st, 1884, brutally murdered Keeper Michael F. Doran, at Eastern Penitentiary, by beating his brains out with a wooden bobbin and a bar of iron, was hanged in the corridor of the county prison at 10 o'clock this morning. The keeper had administered to Taylor a nauseating medicine, which the prison physician had prescribed, and thereby incurred Taylor's animosity. Taylor was only 28 years of age. He was of a vicious disposition, and the police records show he stabbed 17 persons and shot 28 during 10 years before the murder.

The Russian Advance.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 16.—The Standard in an editorial on the reported advance of Russian troops to Zulfikar Pass, says: Although more reassuring news was received late yesterday from Col. Ridgeway, chief of the British Afghan boundary commission, the news from other sources regarding the Russian movements is of the gravest character. The only redeeming feature in the intelligence from Afghanistan, says the Standard, was that the Afghans have attached themselves more firmly than ever to our side.

Again Becoming Serious—Trouble Certain.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 16.—The Daily Telegraph says the negotiations between England and Russia regarding the Afghan frontier question have become serious. Russia is preparing new claims and refuses to yield to Lord Salisbury, whose tone, although studiously friendly, is firm.

The Standard, in commenting upon the same subject, declares England will never condone a second edition of the Penjdeh outrage.

London Money Market.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, 11 a. m., July 16.—Consols opened at 98⅛ for both money and account, advanced to 98⅛, afterwards declined and are now quoted at 98⅛. Russian securities opened at 91¼, advanced to 91⅝, then declined and now quoted at 91. 12:30 p. m.—Consols are now quoted at 98⅛ for both, stocks and funds have improved. Russian securities are now quoted at 92.

Toronto Speaks Out on the Chinese Question.

Special to THE TIMES.

TORONTO, July 16.—At a public meeting held last night, which was largely attended by all classes of citizens and Mayor Manning presiding, resolutions were passed declaring that further admission of Chinese into Canada should be rigidly restricted, if not totally prohibited.

Austria Bitter Against Germany.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 16.—Prince Bismarck is soon to have a conference at Salzburg with Count Kalnoky, Austrian minister of foreign affairs, relative to the vexed question of Austro-German customs. There is a bitter feeling in Austria in consequence of a recent increase in import duties by Germany.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

A Man Killed at Gray's Landing by Log ging Cars.

Special to THE TIMES.

YALE, July 16.—Jos. W. Wright, a native of Portland, Oregon, was instantly killed last night at Gray's Landing, by his falling between two logging cars. The body was brought here and will be buried to-morrow.

The Money Barometer.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 16.—Brokers were the most prominent sellers. Decline was checked shortly before 11 o'clock, and at that hour the market was active and strong at slight recovery from decline.

LONDON, July 16, 4 p. m.—Consols advanced to 98 5-16 for both.

Is El Mahdi Dead.

Special to THE TIMES.

CAIRO, July 16.—Arabs of the upper class believe that El Mahdi is dead. Lerpton Bey, with his garrison, has arrived at Sennar. The famine in Kordofan has become terrible, and has extended to Khartoum. Hostile Arabs will not advance to Dongola for several months.

Cholera.

Special to THE TIMES.

MADRID, July 16.—There were 1496 new cases of cholera and 664 deaths in Spain yesterday.

MARINE NOTES

The Sir Jamset-jee will be towed to sea to-morrow morning.

American ship Benjamin F. Packard, Capt. Waternouse, from Liverpool, 150 days, with 2900 tons of rails for the C. P. R., arrived last night.

American bark Mendota, 512 tons, Captain Nash, which arrived in San Francisco last month from Honolulu with sugar, is chartered to load lumber at Burrard Inlet for Shanghai.

Some anxiety is felt for the safety of the British bark Annie Millicent, which sailed from Astoria January 11th for Cork, and has not been heard from since. She is now 180 days out.

Ship Blue Jacket, which collided with tug Tacoma the 12th ultimo, receiving slight injury to her stem, arrived in San Francisco from Seattle with 1800 tons coal, making the passage in nine days—just one month after the accident.

The bark Prince Rupert, from London for Victoria with a cargo of general merchandise, was spoken in lat. 57 south, and long. 71 west, on the 28th of May. Making average time, she should arrive here by the end of the present month.

NANAIMO NOTES.

The Trail to Alberni not Found.—Rumor Contradicted.

The town and district is wrapped in smoke; our forests west and south are on fire for miles along the

into the interior. The government prospecting party has returned from Alberni, and from what I can glean has not been successful in finding a practicable route for a trail. They had some narrow escapes from falling timber from forest fires. As usual the Indian guides deserted them away up in the neighborhood of Mount Arrowsmith, and they had to carry their own provisions and utensils. The party report the country as terribly mountainous and arid. There is an end then to the new route for the present. Yet I believe there is a practicable route by way of Barnston lake to Fallensby lake, from thence to the sawmill on the canal. There is a trail from Nanaimo to near Barnston lake, nearly half way to Alberni canal, and the apparent practicability of the route is evident to any one taking a glance at the chart of Vancouver Island, being almost direct. In all probability it will be Hofson's choice if the government intend to make a shorter route than the present trail and are earnest in their intentions.

NOT ALL TRUE.

The rumor circulated last week relative to parties resident in this district, I am happy to say, is without foundation in fact; and I cannot for a moment imagine what gave birth to reports that now appear to be totally without foundation, unless it was from the over heated brain of a discarded swain, who, to color the story laid more heroines than one in his plot.

Trade is dull, but we have a Chinese battle reported from down the coast which is the talk of the city to-night.

ALPHA.

Dangerous Blasting.

Workmen engaged in blasting on Humboldt street should use more care. A blast let off about noon to-day destroyed a small portion of James Bay bridge, and one large piece of rock went through the roof of a house back of Becker's hotel, where a lady was engaged cooking dinner, destroying the room used and narrowly missing the lady, who was near the stove at the time. Sufficient covering over the blast must have been the reason as the distance the fragments traveled was considerable.

Address, THE TIMES P. & P. CO., Victoria, B. C.

J. C. McLAGAN, Manager.

A NUMBER of ladies asked permission to witness the trial of RIEL at Regina, and they have been provided with seats. Admission to the Court House will be by ticket.

BY an arrangement, the exact particulars of which have not become public, the members of parliament are to pocket a few hundred dollars additional for the present session.

THE Government Bill to suspend the operation of those portions of the McCARTHY Act which have been declared by the Supreme Court to be unconstitutional, has been read a third time.

THE Railway Age says railway building in the United States for the past six months of 1885, is less than that of corresponding periods for the past five years. The total miles laid up to July in twenty-five states is 895, by fifty-six lines.

THE Dominion Cabinet has decided to suspend the imposition of duties upon the importation of fish and fish oils from Newfoundland, pending the progress of negotiations between the Dominion and Newfoundland. The Newfoundland government has been notified to that effect.

HERAT really is the key to India and the gate of India. Beginning from the north, from Siberia down to India, there is no spot so fertile as Herat. It is the place where all the roads unite from the north to the south, and from the west to the east; and in olden times Herat was always the emporium of Central Asian trade.

NOTHING can better demonstrate the utter demoralization and stagnation in the trade of Montreal this season than a comparison of the present and previous year up to date. From official records at the harbor master's office the number of sailing ships which have arrived this year is 258, a decrease of 25, and of tonnage 21,745, as compared with the same period last year. The ocean steamships this year up to date numbered 73, and for the same period last year 98, a decrease of 25, and of 26,998 in tonnage.

IT is said that the Parnellites have requested MR. JUSTIN MCCARTHY to stand as candidate for the City of Liverpool at the next election. MR. MCCARTHY is an able and accomplished man and an elegant writer. He has given us an interesting and, on the whole, the fairest history of England during the reign of QUEEN VICTORIA that has yet been published. It is said, also, that the National League has resolved to stand aloof from all English politics. MR. PARNELL then, it would seem, has no notion of merging his party into that of the Tories under LORD SALISBURY.

THE German Minister of War has prepared several measures in view of the intended augmentation of the army of Germany. It is proposed, in the first place, to increase the standing army from 418,000 to 480,000, in accordance with the estimated growth of the population. The artillery is to be increased by the creation of two new batteries in each of the nineteen army corps of the German army. Besides this, the number of guns in each battery, which is now four when not mobilized, is to be permanently raised to six. Finally, the formation of some new cavalry regiments is in contemplation.

A LONDON correspondent says: It is literally true that public interest in the Ministerial statements last night is eclipsed by the revelations of the Pall Mall Gazette. London rang last night from end to end with the cries of the newsboys. The presses of the Pall Mall office were kept running yesterday eight hours without interruption, and then a notice was posted that no more copies could be supplied. Northumberland street was blocked all afternoon with crowds of persons, including an army of boys, trying to buy papers. The edition was high up in six figures. Copies sold everywhere at twice or three times the regular price, and as much as 5s. was offered for Monday's date. Nothing else is talked about.

WASTE OF WATER.

The subject of the waste of water by our citizens was discussed in our City Council last evening, when it was proposed to engage the services of a private detective to visit the premises with a view of ascertaining what citizens are negligent in this respect. For many years the Montreal Water Department has employed men to make constant house to house visitations and in this way the people have been prevented from acquiring the habit of carelessly allowing the water to waste which has grown to be such a deplorable evil in other cities. A MR. DEACON, a Liverpool (England) engineer, is advocating a system of checking waste by district meters, by means of which any great waste can be localized. The upholders of the DEACON system claim that theirs is much superior to the visiting plan, inasmuch as it does not necessitate any intrusion upon the privacy of citizens, but by this plan convictions of those wasting the water can only be secured by visiting, though of course on a much less extensive scale, for the waste being localized, only a few houses need to be visited before the delinquent is discovered. At night in Montreal waste is detected by auscultation but no convictions can be thus obtained, the law requiring the testimony of an eye-witness. However, the department there has been much more successful than those cities in checking waste, which still, however, goes on to a much greater extent than the superintendent likes. In discussing this question, the Montreal Star says: More might perhaps be done with the DEACON meter arrangements, but to apply it to our system of supply would be very expensive and require a great deal of care. Of course in using the system each district has to be supplied from one pipe only, and this might endanger our fire pressure. If no changes were made in the present system of pipes for distribution all sources of supply but one would have to be cut off when the inspection of a district was being made and men would have to be stationed at each of the other conduits supplying the district ready to open the gates at the first alarm of fire. Thus the larger the district the greater would be the danger from fire at times of inspection. Then the expense of the system would be so great that MR. LESAGE prefers to wait and profit by the experiences of other cities, a large number of which are making experiments with a view of checking the waste. Boston is now in the second year of its experiments and is well satisfied with the success attained, but then any measure of repression there would be a relief to the water supply since the people of Boston are frightfully careless with regard to their water. In Montreal there is no means of arriving exactly at the waste of water, since the amount used in sprinkling the streets and extinguishing fires is so great. The last time a calculation was made it was found that the consumption of water in the city was equal to 65 gallons per head of the population per day. A large amount of this is waste of course. The plumbers are responsible for a large amount of the waste. In English towns there are usually strict laws regulating the character of the plumbing done. Two years ago MR. LESAGE got the plumbers of Montreal together, and they prepared a by-law which laid down regulations for the character of work to be done in future, but the Council could never be got to pass the law. The reason was that most of the owners of real estate were opposed to it. Well, pipes go on bursting, and tenants don't care to go to the cost of repairing them if they can avoid it, and the result is a terrible waste of water. In the cities of the States they are also beginning to pass by-laws for the regulation of this matter, and new plumbing has to be inspected and stamped by a civic official. The DEACON system is certainly a good thing and should be adopted where water works can be built to suit the requirements of the system, but in this city its application would be attended with great trouble. Even when repairs are necessary MR. LESAGE hardly dares cut off the supply from the business parts of the town, but resorts to other measures which occasion greater waste. Our manufacturers are so largely dependent upon the supply that even a temporary stoppage does great injury. The superintendent is however, alive to the advantage of further reducing the waste, and will do whatever seems reasonable to secure that end.

RECIPROCITY in trade with Jamaica is not likely to be a success. The committee of the Toronto Board of Trade to whom the matter was referred have issued a report which has been adopted by the council, and will be presented to the board at its next meeting, it concludes as follows:—"While we would be glad to see the trade with Jamaica increased we do not see how your board could recommend a different tariff in favor of a country which can neither take from us our surplus exports, nor supply us with the total imports required to the exclusion of other tropical colonies of Great Britain. The subject of increased trade with the British West India Islands is deserving of careful consideration and your committee would suggest the propriety of the government appointing a commission of two or three representative commercial gentlemen from Canada to visit the British West India Islands at an early date to thoroughly investigate upon the spot and report upon the opening of prospects for such an increase of trade.

THE Liberal government of New Brunswick appears to be firmly established in the affection of the people. In the recent by-elections in King's and York counties, the government candidates were victorious: MR. WATSON's majority in King's was as large as MR. LROX's in East Algoma—over 700.

ROBUST HEALTH

Is not always enjoyed by those who seem to possess it. The taint of corrupted Blood may be secretly undermining the constitution. In time, the poison will certainly show its effects, and with all the more virulence the longer it has been allowed to permeate the system. Each pimple, sty, boil, skin disorder and sense of unnatural lassitude, or languor, is one of Nature's warnings of the consequences of neglect.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only remedy that can be relied upon, in all cases, to eradicate the taint of hereditary disease and the special corruption of the blood. It is the only alterative that is sufficiently powerful to thoroughly cleanse the system of Scrofulous and Mercurial impurities and the pollution of Contagious Diseases. It also neutralizes the poisons left by Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever, and enables rapid recuperation from the enfeeblement and debility caused by these diseases.

Myriads of Cures

Achieved by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, in the past forty years, are attested, and there is no blood disease, at all possible of cure, that will not yield to it. Whatever the ailments of this class, and wherever found, from the scurvy of the Arctic circle to the "veldt-sores" of South Africa, this remedy has afforded health to the sufferers by whom it was employed. Druggists everywhere can cite numerous cases, within their personal knowledge, of remarkable cures wrought by it, where all other treatment had been unavailing. People will do well to

Trust Nothing Else

than AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Numerous crude mixtures are offered to the public as "blood purifiers," which only allure the patient with the pretense of many cheap doses, and with which it is folly to experiment, while disease is steadily becoming more deep-seated and difficult of cure. Some of these mixtures do much lasting harm. Bear in mind that the only medicine that can radically purify the vitiated blood is

The Plaint of a Brilliant Debutante—A Host of Tailor-Made "Society Fellows," but Real Men Are Scarce—Well, What?

[Dakota Letter in N. Y. Sun.]

Only a short time ago the bright young daughter of an eminent St. Louis lawyer said to me: "You mockingly criticise us for encouraging the attentions of what you contemptuously style 'whippersnappers,' 'snips,' 'dudes,' and 'callow goslings,' but how can we help it? There are twenty of these little fellows in society where there is one really desirable man, and if it were not for them we would miss many an entertainment that we want to attend, many an opera and play, many a set in dancing, that we now enjoy. But for these very pigmies, with their 'three-hair-power mustaches,' that you speak of so scornfully, every girl in St. Louis would be left at home half the times she now gets out, and would be a wallflower more than half the time when she managed to inveigle her father or brother into escorting her to parties and receptions. You find me plenty of these brainy, cultivated, aspiring men with a future, that you talk about, and I will find you plenty of girls capable of appreciating them, and ready to drop all their retinue of 'pomatumed snips,' for them any time. Bring on your 'real men.' Trot out your thoroughbreds."

She was only a debutante, but do you know she had nonplussed me? I told over all the masculine beads of my society rosary; I took a lightning-calculator inventory of all my trousers-wearing acquaintance in what is known as "good society;" I reviewed long processions of the bifurcated ornaments of seaside and mountain and lakeside resorts, of balls and routs and operatic first nights; and I had to admit that this vehement young-girl indictment was "a true bill." All over the country a man famine prevails.

We have hosts of society fellows—swells, giddy boys—but they are hardly the kind of husband material a sensible woman would select, if it were not a case of "Hobson's choice." Many of them are kind-hearted, agreeable little creatures, disposed to do everything in their power to earn the gratitude of the girls, to whose enjoyment they contribute themselves and all they have and are. But a considerable proportion of them are freaks of nature, only to be accounted for when the creation of mosquitoes, fleas, mumps, and measles is explained. They are as much alike, find them where you will, as the little lumps of pill dough under a druggist's spatula. There is not originality enough in them, or the tailors they patronize, to get up sufficient difference between any two of a thousand of them to recognized under a forty-mile-power microscope. Their physiognomies are mild burlesques on the lap-dog family. Their shanks and feet look like pins stuck in pumpkins.

Their clothes are all of the loudest fashion, and their neckties flame with all the hues of an Adirondack autumn, while life seems with them to be a perpetual struggle to see over their collars. Their faces are decorated with bergamot-exhaling side whiskers and lip fuzz thin and sickly. Their kid gloves are gaudy, and their switch canes have semi-blackguard handles, usually copies in ivory or gold of some ballet dancer's pirouetting pins. Ponderous chains with horseshoe and dog-head charms dangle from their flashy vest patterns. Their visages are stupid and sensual, and their mouths are mere expressionless gashes, that only open to take in oysters, cocktails, and champagne, and let out ball-room compliments, stale obscenity, and drawling oaths. They walk with a dawdling, mincing gait, that carries a perpetual flavor of the "german" or the "racquet." They talk with a foreign affection, full of "aws" and "you knaws," and their breath is over redolent with whisky and cigarette tobacco.

They leer with insufferable insolence at every woman that comes within reach of their weak dishwatery eyes, and comment on "the points" of their girl acquaintances as they do on those of a horse or a speckled female pointer pup. They laugh in their idiotic, would-be cynical way at the idea of virtue, and hold that every woman has her price. They estimate men only by their clothes and their money. They never had, or can have, an unselfish thought. All their sentiments center in their own base appetites. They worship no god but themselves, and the Hottentot fetich worshipper has a more respectable deity. Squeeze a million of them into one and they would not make a real man.

And yet they are all-important factors of our vast society. No wedding ceremony is complete without some of them as ushers and salad annihilators. No ball or reception is perfect without a numerous sprinkling of them to flourish their shining, patent-leathered heels, only less light and leathery than their heads, to the witching strains of its viols and lutes. Without them our girls would often—too sadly, awfully often—be beauless, stay-at-homes would abound and wall-flowers would flourish thicker than touch-me-nots in rustic parterres, or bachelor-buttons in Dakota, where four-fifth of all the buttons are bachelors' buttons.

What is to be done? There is a cry from Damesdomia, come and help us. In the name of suffering girldom, I call upon our social philosophers, pundits, and panjandrums for aid and counsel. Where is the use of all our nineteenth-century progress in art and science, if an improved article of society than cannot be invented and manufactured in greater abundance? What is the good of all our electric lights or telephones, photographs, and double track railroads from New York to Mexico and the moon, if our girls have to marry nobodies, or go husbandless to join the ever swelling army of dried-up spinsters martyrs?

How can I, without seeming mockery, wish a happy New Year," or "many happy returns" of their birthdays, to a portion of maidens who have let the priceless hours of four or five or six leap years pass unprofited by, and are doomed to go unboused, unwooed, and unwedded, save by adolescent nonentes. Darwin's strongest witnesses for heaven only knows how long to come?

Must our American young women still continue to fly to the arms of their coachmen and lackeys, or waste themselves on foreign counts and barons, as a preparatory step to presiding in the back rooms of future barber shops, or passing around the hand organs's compendious tambourine for nickles? If so, "Ichabod" is already written upon the pillars of our new world republic and its glory is departed.

MAN'S INHUMANITY.

AN EARLY MORNING TOUR BY MR. BERGH'S OFFICERS.

Looking After the Physical Welfare of the Animals of the Great City—Incidents of Interest—A Word in Season.

[New York Herald.]

The vast majority of the population of the metropolis is asleep when, at half-past 3 a. m., the stable gate of the society's building is thrown open, and "Old Gray," harnessed to the red four-wheeled business wagon, with the official seal on the side, darts into the street. Superintendent Charles Hankinson hold the reins, and accompanying him are three of his officers. They are on their early morning tour of the great city to ferret out and stop the cruelties of man to animals of every kind. "Old Gray" knows the route, and, striking one of the great East side avenues, turns his head northward and speeds along in the direction of the Harlem bridge. As the wagon nears the car-stables it is stopped. A car comes rumbling on with a half-awake driver and a limping team of old "plugs."

"Stop!" cries the superintendent to the driver.

"What for?" is the sleepy reply.

"Those horses are lame. You'll have to turn them out and take them back to the car stables."

"Well, boss," says the driver, who, from being often lame an' sick himself and yet compelled to work, has a sympathetic feeling for the poor horses. "I've been lookin' out for you and, to tell the truth, I'm glad I've met you. I didn't want to go out with them. I'll take them back."

A little further on an ill-natured fellow is caught whacking his famished-looking horse over the head with savage earnestness. Scarcely before he knows of their presence the society's officers have wrested the whip from his uplifted hand, and before they part from him they give him emphatic warning not to repeat his act of cruelty. The saloons are by this time opening, and the bartenders are out on the sidewalks sweeping broken glass into the streets. "Old Gray" is reined in in front of the foremost of the offenders. The man has just completed his sweeping.

"Do you know that there is a lot of broken glass in that rubbish?" asked the superintendent.

"I guess so," indifferently.

"You'll have to pick the glass out of the street and throw it elsewhere!"

The bartender would much rather fight than undertake the task, but he looks first at the official seal and then at the four officers, and finally, with many mutterings, does as he is bidden. All the other offenders are treated in the same determined manner. Some of them understand the meaning of the law; the majority do not know what to make of it at all. The superintendent has driven away from the last of these indignant dispensers of liquor when his attention is attracted to a "plug ugly" who is strolling along the street with a dog with almost as little claims to good looks as himself. An unfortunate cat crosses their path. "Sick 'em," cries the plug ugly. The dog dashes after tabby. His master is in the hight of his enjoyment over the imminent risk that the cat runs of being overtaken and ill-treated, when some one grabs him by the coat-collar. He turns around in astonishment and is face to face with the officers.

"Call back that dog," says the superintendent.

Plug ugly takes in the situation at a glance and whistled for the brute, who returns to his side.

"Now, take that dog under your charge," says the officer, "and don't let me find you cat-hunting again."

In the distance a string of dirt and contractor's carts is seen. There are about a dozen men on them. Suddenly all of the carts become driverless.

"They've caught sight of the gray," cries the superintendent.

When the red wagon arrives alongside of the carts the horses are found to be suffering from sore backs. They are taken to the nearest stable and left there, subject to the society's order.

At Harlem bridge a number of expressmen are encountered. They have got out their working stock of lame and diseased horses, and are hurrying them across the river at this early hour to avoid coming in contact with Mr. Bergh's officers. Surprised at their tricks, they reluctantly return, at the superintendent's command, to their stables.

Across the bridge a caravan of farmers carrying vegetables to market is met. Three out of every four have broken-winded horses. They are all turned back.

"But my team has come from t'other end of Westchester," urges one of the more obstinate of the number.

"You cannot go to market with them," is the reply. "Next time set out with a good team and you will fare better."

The red wagon rattles over the west side of town, and once more is making its way through the the thickly-populated streets. Truckman after truckman is caught, either beating his horse or driving a disabled animal. The whip is snatched from him, or the poor brute is taken away. At Franklin street, where the stock comes in, a longer stop than usual is made. Calves and sheep are, by order of the officers, fed and watered. In Washington market the calves that are on their way to the slaughter-houses are, if crowded, taken out and the load lessened. The licensed venders in this and Gansevoort markets are overhauled, and every one of their horses is examined to find out if it is in good condition. If any sores are discovered the venders are made to shift the saddles so that they will not come in contact with the sores.

The red wagon, when it arrives at the postoffice building, remains there long enough for the officers to alight and look at all the horses in the service. If any animal is unfit for work it is sent to the nearest stable, and before the mail can be carried to its destination fresh horses have to be procured.

By this time the superintendent has quite a collection of whips, and has met with many piteous appeals from New Jersey and Long Island farmers who have been half frightened to death at their encounter with him, not knowing whether their offenses was punishable by simple arrest or whether they are liable to be hanged for it.

The officers' work is not yet ended. At the fish markets if they find turtles tied by the fins they compel the dealer to untie them. They see that fowls are properly housed, and if overcrowded on wagons extra coops are secured and the fowls watered and fed. It is not an unfrequent occurrence for rude men to urge their dogs to bite the pets which accompany ladies through the streets. These officers put a stop to this pastime also.

More Water for Infants.

[Demorest's Monthly.]

A distinguished children's doctor believes, from his practice, that infants generally, whether brought up at the breast or artificial, are not supplied with sufficient water, the fluid portion of their food being quickly taken up and leaving the solid too thick to be easily digested. In warm, dry weather, healthy babies will take water every hour with advantage, and their frequent fretfulness and rise of temperature is often directly due to their not having it.

Charcoal for the Complexion.

[Demorest's Monthly.]

A well known writer on feminine beauty recommends the use of finely ground French charcoal for the complexion. A teaspoonful of this well mixed with water or honey, should be taken for three successive nights, followed by a simple purgative, to remove it from the system. The aperient must not be omitted, or the charcoal will remain in the system, a mass of festering poison, with all the impurities it absorbs.

PROGRESS ON THE CONGO.

What Has Been Accomplished — The March of Civilization.

[New York Sun.]

The 240 white agents of the International association and the French government along the Congo are beginning to introduce into that wild region many of the comforts and necessities of civilized life. They are now erecting at some of their stations frame houses that were built in Belgium and transported in sections to the Congo. The international stations are to be connected by telegraph, and a part of the plant is now on the way. A sanitarium has been established at Boma, sixty-five miles from the sea, and others are to be built at convenient points along the river as comfortable refuges for the sick. With the present improved roads and the perfected system of load portage past the cataracts, and the use of seven steamboats above Stanley Pool, it is found that it need not take many days longer now to reach Stanley Falls, about 1,200 miles from the coast, than it did to reach Stanley Pool, 325 miles inland three years ago.

Some of these steamboats are pushing up the large affluents of the Congo, which, according to Stanley, will make 5,000 miles of river navigation in the Congo basin available to commerce. We are treated every little while to some fresh surprise with regard to the great river or its tributaries. M. Giraud, for instance, who returned to France the other day from his trip to the head waters of the Congo, says the river after leaving Lake Bangwolo turns abruptly southwest, and flows in that direction for 150 miles before it turns north toward Lake Mooro. If his information is correct, it adds nearly 300 miles to the length of the river, which, since Stanley followed it to the ocean, has been known to be the greatest river in Africa, and probably second only to the Amazon in the volume of water it pours into the sea, and in its navigable extent.

The work of suppressing the Arab slave dealers from Zanzibar bids fair to involve the new state in serious responsibilities. Sixteen months ago the most western point reached by these Arabs was Nyangwe on the Congo, about 300 miles west of Lake Tanganyika. They have recently appeared, however, 300 miles further down the Congo, and have desolated villages and dragged the natives into slavery in territory claimed by the International association. It was in this part of the Congo that Gordon expected to face the slave dealer and force him to give up his cruel trade, and it will be a beneficient work if the International association rescues the natives of the upper Congo from this scourge of central Africa.

Prince Bismarck's Dog.

[Chicago Tribune.]

One of Prince Bismarck's characteristics is his love for some large dog which he makes his constant companion and feeds himself—a dog, for instance, like the one that so terrified Prince Gortschakoff. The dog follows the chancellor into the dining-room and stretches itself on the carpet. In the course of the meal the butler brings a large piece of boiled beef on one plate and bits of soaked bread on another. The prince in person cuts up the beef and prepares the food for the dog, which stands by, grave and attentive, pending the solemn preparation of its food. The prince's dog is never fed in any other way. There is something noteworthy in the habits of this man, who personifies the Prussian race in its most elevated character.

"The Roller Walk."

[Buffalo Express.]

A new result of roller skating has made its appearance. It might be called the roller walk, and may be observed in the carriage of young women who frequent the alleged banistul resorts. It consists in a short, quick, outward turn of the heel as the foot is raised in walking. The opponents of the rinks say that this is but the precursor of foot-and-mouth disease, cerebro-spinal meningitis, small-pox, spavin, black-death and a host of other horrible ills which are bound to afflict the race which permits roller skating or any other form of bodily exercise in which both sexes join.

Courting by Note.

[Greensboro (Ga.) Journal.]

Greensboro has a certain young gentleman who is remarkable for his originality. He has lately been enchained in the silken fetters of Cupid, and thoughts of the fair enchantress constantly filled his mind. He has a special book in which, during the week, he notes down the thoughts which occur to him about his lady love. When Sunday comes he visits her, armed with the note book, and proceeds to read from them the most tender expressions which have occurred to him from time to time. This can really be called courting by note.

Nervousness.

[Minneapolis Housekeeper.]

Nine times out of ten a case of nervous prostration is another name for a fit of selfishness (and ought to be so understood), from which the patient speedily recovers as soon as she gets her own way. Nervousness, so called, is sometimes a real malady, closely akin to temporary insanity; but as a rule, it is brought on by willful selfishness and brooding over small vexations or wrongs.

For Young Cake-Makers.

["O. O." in Brattleboro Household.]

Cake should never be disturbed while baking, for if it is moved or jarred, after it has risen, before it is done it is very apt to fall and "make a crater." The oven should be as near the right temperature as possible—not quite so hot as for biscuit—for if it is too hot, and the door has to be opened to let in cool air when the cake is partially cooked, then it is very apt to fall. So much for young cake-makers.

Pleading with an Obdurate Patient.

[LaSalle (Ills.) Democrat Press.]

When young folks, full of warm, healthy blood, get "soft" on each other, that settles it. Iron bars, caves, cellars and parents' wrath don't count for a cent. They have got it into their heads to marry, and that event is going to be consummated if a priest, preacher or squire can be found in the land.

Women in Europe.

[The Current.]

Since 1870 women have been admitted to universities in Sweden, Norway, Russia, Switzerland, Italy, Spain, and France. At St. Petersburg in 1882 ninety-nine young women were given degrees in the literary and historical department and sixty-four in the scientific department.

Like Other Girls.

[Mobile Register.]

Southern girls are human like other girls. They would much prefer being wealthy to having to work for their living; but they are no women in the world who undertake such work more bravely, cheerily and uncomplainingly.

To Cleanse Marble.

A paste made from mixing whiting and benzine will cleanse marble from grease. A paste composed of whiting and chlorine of soda spread on marble and left to dry in the sun will remove stains if they are not too deep.

To His Daughter.

A shrewd old gentleman once said to his daughter: "Be sure, my dear, you never marry a poor man; but remember that the poorest man in the world is one that has money and nothing else."

Too Frequently.

Nine times out of ten the woman who is worth her weight in gold marries a man who is not worth his weight in scrap-iron.

Criticising Michigan Cuisine.

[Puck.]

A Michigan paper with considerable display publishes a recipe for a "mussles tomato soup." This might to be very. All mussles you have to do is to leave them out, but let Kate try it sometimes. A mute soup if he wants to earn a name for himself.

Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism. Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water.

All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters? I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave.

J. W. MOORE.

Buffalo, Oct. 1, 1881.

Poverty and Suffering.

I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring.

I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I commenced using Hop Bitters, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost, I know it.

Capt. Good, of the Inland revenue office here, has notified dealers that hereafter the excise duty on tobacco will be 20c. per lb. instead of 12c. as heretofore, and $1.30 per gallon on spirits instead of $1. Cigars now pay $3 additional per thousand to that formerly charged.

—The TIMES was correct in the statement about the statutes being farmed out. The skilled labor portion of the binding, for the first time, was executed this year outside the province. It will be hard for the government to justify its action in this matter when called upon for an explanation.

—Col. Charles Denby, the newly-appointed E. E. and M. P. from the U. S. to China, was tendered a banquet by his fellow citizens at Evansville, Ind., on Tuesday. Arrival of a Noted Contractor To-day.

Capt. P. Larkin, of St. Catharines, Ont., of the well known contracting firm of Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co., arrived from the east this morning. His many friends in Victoria from the city of the Saints extended a cordial welcome to the captain. He was shown around the city this morning by Dr. Jones and Mr. E. V. Bodwell, Dominion accountant. Mr. Larkin's stay in this province is uncertain as in addition to the dry dock and the Island railway contract his firm have also the contract for the Quebec harbor improvements and the graving dock being constructed in that city. The captain is a jolly, lively gentleman and a hale fellow well met everywhere. He reports the weather as delightfully fine in the east and the crops looking remarkably well, indicating a luxuriant harvest. He came by the Northern Pacific, was charmed with the road and the grand scenery along the entire route. With this city he is much pleased and thinks the climate all that he has heard it described to be—perfectly charming.

A Teachers' Institution.

The school teachers of the province, who have been in the city for some days attending the examinations, met in Pandora street hall last night and organized "The Teachers' Institute of British Columbia." Rev. D. Fraser acted as chairman and Mr. R. A. Anderson as Secretary. The following officers were appointed: President, S D Pope, Superintendent of Education; vice president, J N Muir, secretary-treasurer, Robert A Anderson; committee of management, David Wilson, B A, Miss M V Storey, and the president, vice president and secretary-treasurer. The institute has now a membership of one hundred. A musical and literary entertainment will be held to-night at 7:30 at the Pavilion Rink, Fort street, for which an excellent programme has been provided.

A Distinguished Divine Coming.

The Rev. Dr. Sutherland of the Methodist Church of Canada, is on his way to this province, having left Toronto on the 4th inst. He is accompanied by Ex-Ald. Moore, of Toronto, likewise an influential member of the Wesleyan body. The Rev. Dr. is a popular preacher and holds an exalted position in the church. He began his career in one of the Guelph, Ont., printing offices, where he graduated as a thorough proficient in the "art preservatory of all arts." He abandoned the pen for the pulpit shortly after attaining his majority and has since gradually ascended the ladder of fame until the top rung has been reached. He intends to spend a few weeks in this province visiting the several mission fields therein. It is possible the doctor will occupy the Pandora street Wesleyan church on Sunday evening next.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

SECOND DAY'S SESSION.

THURSDAY, July 17.

The meeting was called to order at 10:15 by Mr. J. N. Muir, B. A., vice president.

Minutes of last session were read and adopted.

On motion of Messrs. Wilson and Bannerman it was resolved that the constitution be amended so as to provide for the election of a corresponding secretary.

Miss Agnes Deans Cameron was elected to that position.

The question of deciding the time and place of next meeting of the institute was postponed till next session.

The first paper was read by Mr. J. N. Muir on the subject

HOW READING SHOULD BE TAUGHT.

Reading he said could be divided into three classes, mechanical, in ellectual and rhetorical. The first treated merely of the form or mechanical part; the second was the science of understanding thoroughly what was read, and the third was the science of reading in such a manner as to properly express the feeling indicated by the matter read. One of the principal objects of a teacher should be to teach the pupils the sense or meaning of the words read by them. Special care also should be taken to have each word pronounced separately in order that the meaning may be clearly understood by the hearers. One lesson should be learned thoroughly before another was commenced, and the reading should be done slowly. Reading could not be done according to a set of rules. The sense of the extract must, to a great extent, be the guide in reading. Different meanings could be taken from the same words when read with emphasis on different words. In order that a teacher may be successful as a teacher of reading he must show the pupil how to read—that is he must give examples before them. (Several examples were given to illustrate the remarks made.)

Mr. A. Dods had listened with interest and profit to the address. In his own school he had adopted a system of simultaneous reading, allowing a class to read at once. He he found the plan to work well and would like to hear some others express their opinions on the system.

Mr. Kenny thought simultaneous reading could be adopted profitably at times, but thought it was open to objections if relied on too much.

Mr. A. Gilchrist agreed with the last speaker.

Mr. D. Wilson, New Westminster, referred to some of the faults of readers. He agreed with the principal ideas contained in the address. Children should not be allowed to pronounce words separately but should be taught to speak them in phrases.

Miss A. McCarty had considerable experience in simultaneous reading. She approved of it in preparing lessons, but if depended on too much the class was liable to get into a sing-song style.

Mr. John Mundell thought the system could be adopted advantageously with a class of thirty or forty occasionally, as it would impart novelty and some stimulus to a class.

Mr. Muir then gave a reading entitled "The lost chord," which was heartily applauded.

An adjournment was then taken until 2 o'clock.

POLICE COURT.

(Before E. Johnson, S. M.)

ALLEGED POISONING.

Ah Ling and Ah Ho, on remand, charged with poisoning Ma Chu Lung. Mr. Walls said that he had some doubts as to His Worship having power to order the body to be exhumed, but he believed the Provincial Secretary had such power, and he asked that the case be further adjourned to give time for such to be done. The magistrate thought the prosecution should submit some more evidence to strengthen the case, which would justify him in granting further time. Ma Nun was put in the box and deposed that he had telegraphed to Nanaimo on Tuesday about the death of Ma Chu Lung, and had received a reply not to bury the body until his friends arrived. He had seen deceased at 8 o'clock on Monday afternoon, the day of his death, and he was apparently then in good health; saw him next about 10 o'clock, dead, in Ah Ling's house, which was a place of prostitution. On cross-examination by Mr. Drake, witness said that he sent the telegraph to Nanaimo on Tuesday, about 11 o'clock a. m., to Ma Chu Chung, a namesake of his, and that deceased was a relative. Ma Chu Lung, the deceased, had lived for some months in Ah Ling's house. Witness did not know anything about money, and did not examine his pockets to find out if he had any. On this evidence Mr. Walls applied for a remand, and the magistrate said that while there was no evidence of foul play, there were some suspicious circumstances that would justify him in adjourning the investigation, and he accordingly remanded the prisoners until Tuesday next.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

John R. Fair, on remand from the 13th. Prisoner was charged with assaulting and robbing Jas. W. Sinclair, on James Bay bridge, on Sunday morning last. Mrs. Fair, a respectable looking lady from Olympia, mother of the prisoner, appeared in court. Mr. Sinclair deposed that he met prisoner with several others in the Bee Hive saloon, about nine or ten o'clock on Saturday night, and after a social time together he started home across James Bay, accompanied by prisoner and two others—the prisoner and the tallest man of the three walking ahead. They walked arm-in-arm. When about two hundred feet on the bridge, he and his companion were met by the other two, and he was assaulted by the three, being hit on the ear and in the stomach several times, knocked down and kicked, and had his pockets rifled. One of his assailants threatened if he made any noise to cut his throat. Between $50 and $60 in money and his watch were taken. Calling officers Grant and Shephard, the Yosemite was visited, and prisoner, whom he identified at the time, was found apparently asleep in the waiter's or steward's room. The watch was found in the prisoner's coat pocket when he was arrested. Mr. Walls subjected the witness to a searching cross-examination, but without any result other than to show that the robbery was the closing episode of a "spree," during which several questionable places were visited. At the conclusion of Mr. Sinclair's evidence, court adjourned until 2:30 p. m.

In the afternoon a number of witnesses were examined, the evidence being all corroborative of Mr. Sinclair's. Prisoner was then committed to stand his trial at next assizes.

The Pall Mall Gazette Sensation Doubted.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES.

SIR:—In the dearth of exciting political news the disclosures of the Pall Mall Gazette have come, quite opportunely, to fill the columns of the papers and to entertain the sensation-loving public. It is a question whether the exposure made by the Gazette will do any good. I think the publication of the details of the alleged discoveries is in itself very demoralizing. When young people throughout the world read these details, they are far more likely to be excited thereby to imitate the licentious wrong-doers than to join in the cries of horror raised by the press. Also, it does not seem probable that the evils complained of will be materially checked, although the operators may be compelled to cloak their proceedings more carefully; for, what is proposed to be done? It is simply recommended that there should be a slight change in the law—that the "age of consent" should be two or three years later. Here we may notice the conflicting nature of the allegations; there is great talk of "kidnapping," of "stealing the children of the poor," etc. Now, if by fraud or force any girls have been debauched, as intimated, the laws now existing in England are amply sufficient to protect them and to inflict punishment on the wrongdoers; but I have never heard of any suits being brought for this purpose. Notice that the procuresses would be in most danger, and they at least have no particularly high rank or station which can shield them from the law. Besides, from my own observation, I should say that the poor have as good legal protection against the rich in England, as in any country I am acquainted with. The worthlessness, therefore, of such vague allegations is shown by the fact that no suits of the kind have been instituted. They are also contradicted by the other allegation, which is to the effect that there is a great traffic in girls; and to obviate this, it is proposed to defer the "age of consent" from 13 years to 16 or 18; thereby implying that the girls gave their consent, which conflicts with the first part of the statements. Suppose that the legal age were postponed to 18, an objection to this is that many women are married before that age. Are such marriages henceforth to be illegal? According to the papers, the girls wronged are mostly 15 years old at least, it is not plain how the postponement for one or two years could produce any moral effect. Some of the legislative remedies proposed, e. g., that all solicitation among the youth of both sexes should be declared criminal, are so quixotic as not to merit discussion. I am far from being convinced that the editors of the Pall Mall Gazette are actuated by honorable motives. It is a violent Radical journal, and was quite recently accused of being sold to Russia; the articles being inspired by the Russian agent. I think that the editors are at their old work, exciting class against class. This is manifest by the expressions used "the vices of the aristocracy," "stealing the children of the poor," and the like. Why, anybody who knows England, must be aware that the lower classes are not in any way more moral than the rich. The prices named, $25 and $35, are a sufficient indication that if these statements are true the evil is spread through all classes. It is not necessary to be a capitalist or a peer of the realm to indulge in these vices, if they can be purchased at such slight expense. To judge from the language of the agitators, however, it might be supposed that the upper classes are alone guilty, that they are a mass of ogres occupied in kidnapping and abusing poor children. No doubt we shall be treated by the sanctimonious press to great Jeremiads on the moral degradation of London; we shall be told it is worse than Sodom and Gomarrah, and deserves their fate, and so on; but, from my own experience, and contact with the world, I do not think it is any worse than Paris or New York. All great cities, I suppose, are sinks of iniquity. Any one, however, who has read Martial or Suetonius, will acknowledge that the Londoners are decent and decorous in their vices compared with the ancient Romans.

Our Public School Teachers.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR:—It was the privilege of your correspondent to be present, for a short time, last evening, at the Temperance Hall, at the organization of a "Teachers' Institute" for this province. This is evidently a move in the right direction. It must accomplish one good end if nothing more: It will show the teachers of this province that it is one thing to understand the rules of English grammar, and quite another and an entirely different thing to reduce those rules to practice. The angrammatical utterances of some of the members of the Institute were sufficient to make poor old Lindie's bones rattle in his grave. If English grammar "is the art of speaking and writing the English Language with propriety," then some of our most prominent teachers are extremely artless. But my object at present is especially to direct public attention to the religious utterances of some of the members of the institute. In adopting a constitution, one of the clauses proposed was: "That all meetings of the institute be opened with prayer." This aroused the bitter hostility of some of the teachers present. One gentlemen, who at present occupies a position on the teaching staff of our city schools, moved as an amendment: "That all meetings of the institute be opened with a song instead of a prayer." It is quite evident that he is musically inclined. From the nature of the remarks made by the gentleman in moving his so-called amendment, it was quite apparent that he had no faith in the existence of a Supreme Being; or, if he had, that he was perfectly indifferent to the wants of His creatures. This gentleman's attitude towards the subject of religion is evidently similar to that of one of the late teachers on the city staff, who, when one of her pupils come to a quotation from the bible, told her to "skip that as it was only trash from the bible." Mr. Editor, I am in perfect sympathy with our non denominational, free school system of education. I do not think that any teacher has a right to introduce his peculiar doctrinal belief into his school; but, on the other hand, I for one, certainly do not believe in what some have termed "a Godless education," and if all the members of the institute were in sympathy with the mover and seconder of this musical amendment, then we should have in British Columbia "a Godless education"—simply Cat and nothing more. What would the result of this be? Just this: The youth of our land would become polished villains, educated rascals, which are far more to be dreaded than ignorant ones. I take it for granted that our public school teachers are supposed to be persons of good moral character, (for I do not believe that many of them spend their nights in the "Bee Hive Hab") but how are you to tell whether an atheist is or not? What is his standard of morality I should like to know? The fact is, he can have none; therefore, an atheist is unfit for the honorable profession of an instructor of youth. Hoping that these lines may come under the notice of the chief shepherd of this interesting flock of teachers, the honorable the Minister of Education, and the under shepherd, S. D. Pope, Esq., B. A., Superintendent of Education, and reminding them of the old proverb: "That one scabby sheep is liable to infect the whole flock." I remain, for the present,
